

About AIFC

The Arizona Interagency Farmworkers Coalition (AIFC), a non-profit, community-based service organization, was founded in 1991. The Coalition formed in response to a need to coordinate fragmented services from multi-disciplinary agencies and organizations. AIFC was originally housed and coordinated through the Arizona Alliance for Community Health Centers in efforts to support Migrant Health Centers. Today, AIFC is an independent 501(c)3 non-profit organization.

AIFC has two central purposes today:

- 1) Provide scholarships to children in agricultural worker families to assist with college.
- 2) Organize a yearly educational conference for all organizations providing services to Arizona agricultural workers, such as employment and training programs, farm labor advocates, Community Health Centers, housing programs, labor enforcement agencies, legal aid advocates, migrant educational programs, University agricultural programs, and other local, state, and federal government agencies and private individuals

AIFC is always accepting donations toward our scholarship program. If you would like to donate any items (to be used at a live or silent auction to raise additional funds) or provide any other monetary donation, please contact us anytime.

Why partner with AIFC?

Our Annual Conference is one of the only educational opportunities for agricultural worker service providers to learn and share information to better serve the agricultural workers and their families throughout Arizona. We also provide as many scholarships as we are able to children in agricultural worker families that would like to pursue secondary education beyond high school. Your support will help improve services and opportunities to these vital members of our communities. AIFC is continually looking for partners who provide information, services and products that benefit and support the work of our attendees. Partnering with AIFC means partnering with organizations in your community that are making a difference!
